A Visioning Strategy for Bronte Village

SEPTEMBER 2021
Home to over 16,000 residents, 173 businesses, and a stunning recreational harbour, Bronte Village is both an attractive destination for visitors and a place more people want to call home. Spurred by the designation as an Intensification Area in the Town of Oakville’s Livable Oakville Plan, the community has welcomed 1,000 new residents moving into The Village rentals in June 2021. Additional community growth is afoot, and the Bronte BIA took this opportunity to lead the creation of a space for dialogue about the future of Bronte.

In January 2021, the Bronte Forward! outreach and engagement campaign was launched to capture this shared vision for the community. The BIA wanted to capture answers to pressing questions encompassing community identity and cement a sense of place for all future residents and visitors: What makes Bronte Bronte? And how do we build on the uniqueness of the area to make Bronte even better for everyone?

The vision laid out in this document paints a holistic picture of who we are, what we care about, and what we aspire to be. All the stories and feedback from Bronte Forward! will inform the advocacy work of the BIA. However, the ideas captured here do not belong to the BIA; they belong to the community that created them.

This document comprises the results of community engagement activities conducted by project partners 8 80 Cities, including an online survey, one-on-one interviews, focus groups, community workshops, social media engagement and print outreach. The compiled quantitative data and qualitative observations from this engagement have been distilled in this forward-thinking document.

WHAT IS A BIA?

A Business Improvement Area (BIA) is a non-profit association of commercial businesses within a specified geographic district designated by local government. BIAs are funded through levies on commercial property taxes. BIAs represent the needs of the commercial property owners in brick and mortar establishments within the designated area.

BIAs bring business owners and community together to stimulate the local economy through investments in marketing, streetscape improvements and advocacy work. The BIA is managed by an elected volunteer Board of Directors from the local business community.

The Bronte BIA represents the commercial district defined by Bronte Rd. to the west, East St. to the east, Sovereign St. to the north and Ontario St./Lake Ontario to the south.

THE BIA & BRONTE FORWARD!

Bronte Forward! was conceived and led by the Bronte BIA with community engagement support by 8 80 Cities. The ideas presented in this document are informed by local residents, business owners, staff, students, seniors, neighbourhood groups and folks who call Bronte a destination and home. The BIA looks forward to working in partnership with community and stakeholders across Oakville to make the vision a reality.

The Provincial Policy Statement, 2020, A Place to Grow: Growth Plan for the Greater Golden Horseshoe, 2019 and the Livable Oakville Plan, 2018 provide direction as to where and at what scale intensification can occur in Bronte and beyond. The shared community vision in this document can support the BIA in advocating for an enhanced commercial district amidst this planned growth. By capturing the community identity and desires for an even better Bronte, the BIA has created a seat at the policy table where the community’s voice can be mobilized into action at the local level. The role of the BIA is as an informed advocate within an evolving community.
Message from the Executive Director

Here we are at the culmination of the engagement process that has captured our shared vision, and at the beginning of a forward-thinking Bronte. Thank you to everyone who participated in this process. Your input, views and aspirations are what have made the vision for Bronte so robust.

The driver behind the Bronte Forward! process was the acknowledgment that Bronte is evolving. Instead of letting change wash over us or opposing inevitable growth and intensification, we must collectively decide what it is that makes Bronte special, then play our part marketing and influencing the dream of what Bronte will look, feel, taste and sound like for years to come.

As a local board of the Town of Oakville, we look forward to working with our municipal partners, stakeholders and members to make the dream a reality.

The Bronte BIA has three paths of influence:

1. We manage, fund and staff projects and programs, like the At Home in Bronte Muskoka Chair art installation, as well as beautification efforts like the hanging flower baskets, planters, banners and micro-cleaning throughout the business district.

2. We forge and strengthen partnerships with like-minded organizations to work together to meet similar goals. We sometimes take the lead, sometimes not, but we are an active and engaged participant. An example of this is our participation in the Oakville Economic Recovery and Resiliency Group.

3. Through relationship-building and ongoing communications, we advocate at the policy, planning and operations levels for positive changes that benefit the business district in both the short and long-terms.

Bronte by the Numbers

Originally the traditional lands of the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation, the waterway was used for thousands of years by Indigenous inhabitants as transportation, a source of agriculture, hunting and fishing for sustenance and commerce. European settler-colonizers founded the fishing village of Bronte in 1834, and 22 years later, Bronte Harbour was completed where the Twelve Mile Creek met the vast waters of Lake Ontario.

Today Bronte is home to over 16,000 residents, 173 businesses, a stunning recreational harbour, and a thriving business district.

Bronte Forward! was a community-wide campaign to shape the future of Bronte Village. The result of the campaign is a vision shaped by the community for the community. By engaging directly with residents and visitors of all ages and backgrounds, we gained insights about what matters most to people in Bronte when it comes to creating a thriving waterfront community that is both a cherished destination and a place people call home. This visioning document is the culmination of the engagement and highlights core community values that will guide future planning, development, and community improvement projects in the area.

Between January 2021 and May 2021, the Bronte Business Improvement Area (BIA), in partnership with 8 80 Cities, conducted a community-wide engagement process that connected residents, visitors, business owners, local youth, older adults and everyone in between to virtual workshops, over the phone interviews, postcards invitations for idea sharing, bus stop advertisement, social media and more. Bronte Forward’s multi-faceted approach to community engagement sought to spark conversation and create open communication lines, ensuring all residents and visitors alike feel their hopes for Bronte’s future are represented in this document. The community engagement that informs this document sought to connect with people and groups who may be left out of traditional consultation processes.

Before the pandemic, the Bronte Forward! Engagement Strategy sought to engage the public at large-scale community events, hosting workshops in public spaces, and having pop-up activities to encourage participation and feedback from people of all ages and abilities in spaces that are most accessible to them. This ‘go-to them approach’ was impacted due to social distancing guidelines, and the engagement strategy had to pivot.

Our community engagement approach was tailored to a virtual audience. In conversation with a local seniors’ association, we engaged in a virtual talking circle where a question was posed to the room, and everyone could take a turn adding their perspective. While with a Grade 7 class from a local elementary school, the engagement focused on imagery, movement, games and open-ended discussion. The BIA, the local councilor and other interviewees provided the connection and contact to these groups, signaling a new way to ‘go to them.’
FOCUS GROUPS

Focus groups allowed participants to do a deeper dive on issues. They provided an opportunity for individuals to express their own viewpoints, to hear the opinions of others, and to engage in dialogue with one another. Focus group feedback provided more colour and detail about community members’ experiences of and aspirations for Bronte, complementing the information we gathered through surveys.

As part of the original workplan, we set out to host four virtual focus groups. We exceeded our goal by conducting five 60-minute virtual focus groups with 5 – 10 participants per session. Each session focused on a specific demographic group:

- Business owners and employees: We met with owners and their staff to understand the complexities, challenges and opportunities of being a small business owner in Bronte.
- Older adults: We connected with a local seniors’ association to hear their perspectives on Bronte as an age-friendly community.
- Students: We connected with staff and students from a Grade 7 class from a local elementary school to better understand how the area could become more youth-friendly. We also held a virtual public youth focus group advertised on Facebook as a Saturday morning activity to hear how children of all ages experience growing up in Bronte.
- Equity Seeking Groups: We held meaningful conversations with two local organizations representing equity-seeking groups to hear their hopes for the future of Bronte and how the area can represent them best.

INTERVIEWS

We held ten one-on-one interviews with community leaders, representatives of local clubs and associations, business owners and staff. Our original target was to host between five and ten one-on-one interviews. The purpose of these interviews was to gather detailed insights into the activities, aspirations, and concerns of local community groups and how they may inform the growth and development of Bronte. An equity lens was adopted in interviews with business owners and staff in order to hear a diverse range of experiences of working and living in Bronte by People of Colour.
SURVEYS

The interactive survey had 37 questions and received 799 complete responses from start to finish. The 799 complete responses significantly outpaced our original target of 400 survey responses.

The online survey was the principal method for collecting feedback from residents and visitors about what they love about their community and their priorities and aspirations for Bronte Village. The online survey included multiple-choice and open-ended questions, photos, and visual elements to make a more enjoyable survey experience. The survey was mobile-friendly and took 6–8 minutes to complete.

The survey collected demographic data to segment responses based on demographic categories and to gauge how representative the survey group is of the wider community. Survey respondents were given the option to provide their email addresses to be entered into a draw to win one of five $100 Bronte BIA gift certificates.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Sponsored posts and fun contests allowed the Bronte Village BIA’s followers to interact with the Bronte Forward! campaign material. 57% of survey respondents stated that they were brought to the survey through social media.

COMMUNITY WORKSHOPS

Almost 100 people attended the two public 90-minute interactive virtual stakeholder workshops that capped off the engagement process. We hosted two virtual stakeholder workshops at differing times as to provide options for people to attend based on their schedules. The original target was to host one stakeholder workshop, but the virtual nature of community engagement allowed for us to exceed this target and reach a wider audience.

The purposes of the stakeholder workshop were to:

- Share and corroborate the preliminary findings from the public engagement activities.
- Develop community ideas for pilot projects and small-scale solutions for making Bronte Village a more vibrant and inviting place to live, work, and play.

Workshop participants were divided into smaller breakout groups and provided facilitators to hear and discuss moving Bronte forward. Workshop participants were invited to join the two workshops via social media, direct outreach and e-blasts.
A physical print version of the online survey was disseminated to organizations and individuals who were less likely to access the digital version. BIA staff distributed these surveys to a local seniors’ residence, and responses were collected and recorded.

Postcards and flyers inviting survey responses through a QR code were sent to Bronte’s apartment towers and residential community. Renters are typically a group who are underrepresented in the traditional consultation and outreach processes, so direct invites were a means to correct this. Bus shelter ads with QR codes were strategically placed in and around Bronte to capture the perspectives of transit users.
Data from community engagement and the survey have been organized into the following seven categories for the purposes of analysis. These seven categories encompass both the quantitative and qualitative data observed throughout the engagement and provide the contextual background of the three Visionary Directions as discussed above.

RECREATIONAL WATERFRONT

Bronte residents feel a strong connection with the waterfront, public beach space, trails and parks. Visitors to the community also reported that Bronte’s identity is as a nautical town.

- Approximately 95% of survey respondents identified the harbour and waterfront as the most valuable asset in Bronte.
- In comparison, 50% of respondents stated that visiting the harbour and waterfront area was an excellent experience.
- The most loved destinations in Bronte included the Bronte Heritage Waterfront Park, the Waterfront Trail, Bronte Bluffs and Beach Park and the Bronte Marina.

People of all ages expressed the desire for more options to be active in green spaces. From suggestions to create public canoe and kayak rentals, to an age-inclusive splash pad, to modular park furniture, parks in Bronte can provide an activity for people of all ages and abilities.

“Bronte feels like a paradise when you sit in one of the Muskoka chairs, close your eyes under the warm sunlight and just breathe.”

- Survey Respondent
Residents of all ages and abilities spoke to the desire for more open streets in Bronte.

- To older adults in the community, open streets and curbside cafes were places of hope and normalcy amidst the pandemic and added an element of a complete street to Bronte.

- For local youth, sitting in a café space that used to be a parking spot was invigorating and gave them pride in their community.

To residents and visitors alike, the future of Bronte as a complete community includes open streets and the extension of curbside cafes across the business district. In interviews with retail and service business owners, it became clear that they can also benefit from and desire open streets with curbside vending and garner foot traffic. Food establishments and their owners called curbside seating a lifeline amidst the pandemic. These business owners hoped to see open streets and curbside seating combined and extended into all-seasons, alongside age-friendly programming so that the whole business district can thrive.

“During summer 2020 when traffic was restricted, and restaurant tents were erected, the area felt most like an interesting, pedestrian-friendly neighbourhood”
- Survey Respondent
COMMUNITY GROWTH

Demographic changes and community growth have been observed and embraced by long-time residents and business owners.

- Business owners and their staff have noted an increase of new families amidst the pandemic frequenting their establishments and enjoying the parks. Due to the new freedoms of remote work, families from other communities have come to Bronte to enjoy the close-knit feel and big-city amenities.

Desires for community growth to reflect the visual identity of a waterfront community are important to many involved in the engagement. Concerns were raised about growth outpacing service provision and amenity spaces for Bronte’s new residents.

“It feels like something exciting is just around the corner”
- Survey Respondent
DEPENDABLE INSTITUTIONS

Bronte’s unique and independently owned food and retail options are major draws for visitors and locals.

- Inconsistent hours of operation of independently owned businesses were identified in focus groups as frustrating and hard to anticipate.

Most survey respondents and interviewees identified the desire for more coffee shops, bakeries, and culturally diverse establishments. The desire for everyday amenities and institutions that are dependable was a reoccurring theme throughout the engagement.

“The local restaurant owners go above and beyond to make their customers feel like family. Thai Senses listened to our concerns and adopted environmentally-friendly take-out packaging. They listened and made the change! When we placed an order with Zara’s By The Lake near closing time, they happily made a delicious dinner for us despite the fact that (unbeknownst to us) their family was waiting for the owner to come home so they could break their Ramadan fast. When the snowy owl was at the harbour a photographer was happy to offer my children and I a peek through his lens. My 3-year-old is excited to talk to every single dog owner she passes on our walks and they always have a warm reply for her. Always. Everyone. I could go on and on but my point is that I always feel...loved. Bronte makes me feel loved. It makes me feel home. It makes me feel welcome. It makes me feel safe.”

- Survey Respondent
TRANSPORTATION & SAFETY

This category includes comments from across the engagement related to public transportation, parking management, cycling networks and walkability. The desire for more efficient public transit was identified and the need to better connect the Bronte GO Station with Bronte Village became evident. Older adults praised the Care-a-van service as an efficient and reliable mode of transportation within Bronte.

- Private parking lots and a perceived lack of parking spots was issues observed by people who drive to Bronte, a group that represents 63.5% of survey respondents. Interviews with long-time residents revealed that the majority of trips within Bronte, from home to grab a coffee or from home to the waterfront, were trips taken by the car.

- While long-time residents stated that Bronte is walkable, this was mainly in reference to recreational walking without a destination. To reach destinations in Bronte Village, the car remains the mode of choice.

A vibrant and safe public realm depends on the ability of residents to access their community safely on foot. Older adults stated their apprehensions of construction-lined sidewalks that impact their perceptions of safety. A lack of pedestrian crosswalks and disconnected trails have impeded walkability and bikeability, according to focus groups.

- Biking as a means of transportation beyond leisure was identified as a preferred mode of travel to and within Bronte by local youth, select interviewees and 22% of folks that answered the survey. This demographic observed the need and opportunities to better connect Bronte’s trails both visually, by design, and through signage to improve walking and biking conditions.

- Interviews with business owners, visitors and those that rely on the car for daily trips revealed that car towing is a frequent occurrence that can impact the reputation of Bronte. Interviewees suggested that private lots be better marked to prevent illegal parking.

“Unfortunately the fear of having my car towed has stopped me from shopping in Bronte. I worry that if I go from one shop (where I am eligible to park) and then go to another shop (where I’m not sure I can park) that I will be towed. So I just don’t ‘shop around’ anymore, I do however, feel that the GO Station is a gift to the community”

- Survey Respondent
ACTIVITIES & PROGRAMS

Residents and visitors want more frequent and less formal events and activations in Bronte’s parks and public spaces.

- Events of the past tended to be big celebrations with large crowds, but in discussion with the focus groups, the desire for events and activities in the future should focus on amplifying local talent in the parks and public spaces.

- Local business owners and staff appreciated past events, but a disconnect remained between the event and its stewardship. Events and activations that are co-created with local talent and input from residents and business owners can ensure local support.

- Business owners and staff expressed the desire to get involved in the future of events and programming that will transition from large-scale one-offs into locally driven, crowd-sourced events and activations in parks and public spaces.

FOUR-SEASON USES

Great public spaces are activated in all four seasons. Focus groups identified the lack of programming in Bronte’s parks and public spaces in the fall, winter and spring times despite their desire to enjoy the community and support local in all seasons.

- Modular seating and gathering elements and age-inclusive play options should be added to Bronte’s parks and public spaces, according to interviewed older adults who desire to be safely active and connected in all seasons.

“Love the painted chairs on the pier every summer. I really enjoyed the live summer concert series for the last two summers. I would love to see a farmer’s market or weekend craft fair during the summer. Also, there should be a Festival of Lights as a winter attraction. Skating, and an ice sculpting contest in winter would be fun.”
- Survey Respondent

“I have many happy memories visiting Bronte with friends and family, not just on Canada Day. I would love to visit more frequently and spend casual time enjoying the area. It doesn’t have to be a big celebration to get me to come visit.”
- Survey Respondent
"My vision for Bronte would be growth at a pace that’s sustainable. Busy, but with a sense of calm. Beautiful but mother nature beautiful. A community where everyone matters and decides the direction that Bronte should go."

"Our idea for moving Bronte forward is encouraging people to come here, keep the big buildings and big corporations out of here and try and keep it very small mom-and-pop, and keep the history and the nostalgia here."

"It would be great if we had less litter and less trash, and people were responsible for their trash. Not just individuals and the public, but that business owners worked with the public and with the region to create a cleaner environment. The driftwood we have here in our stores is the only things we want to see washing up on our shores."

As part of the Bronte Forward! community-wide campaign, the BIA produced a two-part video series profiling some of Bronte Village’s business owners, asking them what their ideas are for moving Bronte forward.

We asked local business owners their views on Bronte...
“I think that Bronte’s got a great foundation, so I think really what the answer is more small businesses, maybe some more development down by the lake, continue building beautiful restaurants and just keep the village feel.”

“I think Bronte is really growing. There’s so many people that come from out of town that just enjoy the area, and are finding it’s the place they want to live.”

“Definitely younger families coming into the community, it’s becoming more diverse than it used to be and it’s really expanding.”

“Bronte already has the charm of the village. I think we just need to bring back all of the events that we had in the past. Live music, art shows, live performers, and like Mike said; the street food and kiosks vibe would just be incredible.”
